Natwest Money

Natwest Bank have produced Money Sense, a free financial education programme for 5 to 18 year olds. The programme has loads of resources, videos, games and advice on how to teach your children about the value of money and also how to look after their money (including the importance of saving). More information can be found here. Do take a look as there are lots of fun things on the website that you can do with your children to help them gain an understanding of money.
